RE: Sykes v. RBS Citizens, N.A., et al
US District Court Docket No. 1:13-cv-00334-JD

Dear Dr. Mart:

Enclosed is a copy of your deposition transcript and deposition exhibits. You are allowed to make corrections in the deposition transcript. You may make corrections if you believe that the transcription is incorrect, or if you misunderstood a question and your answer is incorrect. It is not necessary to make corrections for very minor punctuation errors, spelling errors, etc.

If you wish to make a correction you should make it on the attached Errata Sheet and Certificate of Witness/Deponent. You make the correction by referencing the page and line number in which the correction should be inserted and then write the correction in longhand. Once you have made any corrections you feel are necessary, sign the attached Errata Sheet and Certificate of Witness/Deponent before a Notary Public and return the attached Errata Sheet and Certificate of Witness/Deponent to me.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Thomas J. Pappas
